

JESSIE MAE JOHNSON

October 26, 1931 - September 22, 2025

Jessie Mae Johnson was born on October 26, 1931, in Olivia, North Carolina, to the late Charlie and Hassie Johnson. After the early passing of her parents, Jessie was lovingly raised by her devoted aunt, Mother Faithful Hannah Fisher, who also cared for her siblings Alberta and John Ander.

Jessie lived a full and meaningful life. She attended public schools in North Carolina before moving to Washington, D.C., where she pursued a career in nursing. She proudly graduated as a Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN) and went on to work at several esteemed institutions, including D.C. General Hospital, hospitals in Palo Alto, California, Walter Reed National Military Medical Center, and the National Institutes of Health (NIH). Jessie devoted the later part of her career to caring for cancer and dialysis patients with compassion and grace, retiring on December 1, 1989.

A woman of deep faith, Jessie became a member of Refreshing Spring Church of God in Christ in 1951. She served faithfully on the hospitality team and later as a beloved Church Mother. She found joy in serving others, both at church and in her family. Jessie was especially known for her love of Sunday dinners and her famous homemade cakes, which brought her family together week after week.

Jessie was a proud mother to her daughter, LaTana (Lester), and a cherished grandmother to Tasha (Tony) and Andrew (Quantesha). She was also blessed with three great-grandchildren: Amir, Alijah, and Ali. Her legacy of love and kindness continues through them. She is also remembered with love by her nieces: Diane (Philip), Cheryl (Darrel), and Gail (Adam).

Jessie was preceded in death by her aunt, Mother Faithful Hannah Fisher, her siblings Alberta MacArthur and John Ander Johnson, and close family members Ardelia "DeeDee" Woods and Edmond Woods.
